to me

Dear BUAT family,

I hope this email finds you in good health and high spirits. As an alumnus of the 2012 B.Sc.(Hons.) Agriculture batch, I often find myself reminiscing about the formative years I spent at Banda University of Agriculture and Technology.

Being part of the university during its nascent stage was an experience like no other. I still remember the challenges we faced—shortages of water, electricity, hostels, and other essential infrastructure, coupled with the limited availability of teaching and non-teaching staff. Yet, what stood out during those years was the unwavering support and dedication of our teachers. They not only guided us through the academic curriculum but also worked tirelessly to address these challenges, ensuring that we had the best possible learning environment under the circumstances.

Those four years were truly transformative for me. They instilled a sense of resilience and adaptability, teaching me how to make the most of limited resources and focus on growth despite the odds. The journey was not just about academics but also about building character and learning life lessons that continue to serve me well.

I am deeply grateful to the university and its faculty for shaping my journey and equipping me with the tools to face the challenges of the professional world. It would be an honor to contribute in any way I can to support BUAT's growth and success.

Thank you once again for everything. I look forward to staying connected and seeing the university scale even greater heights.

Warm regards,
Shiv Mani Dubey

to me

Dear Alumni Team,

As an alumnus of Banda University of Agriculture and Technology, where I pursued my Bachelor of Science in Agriculture Honours from 2017 to 2021, I hold a deep sense of gratitude and respect for the institution. My time at BUAT was transformative, filled with moments of learning, growth, and self-discovery. However, like any journey, it had its share of strengths and areas that warrant improvement.

One of the most commendable aspects of BUAT is its emphasis on academic rigor and practical learning. The faculty members were knowledgeable and approachable, always ready to guide us not just academically but also in shaping our careers. The university provided ample opportunities for fieldwork, which allowed us to apply theoretical knowledge in real-world agricultural settings. These hands-on experiences were invaluable in building a solid foundation.

The lush green campus and the research facilities were another highlight. The serene environment encouraged a deeper connection with agriculture, while the experimental farms and laboratories offered a space for innovation and exploration. Participating in extracurricular activities, from cultural events to sports, also helped in nurturing teamwork and leadership skills.

However, I believe there are areas where BUAT can improve to enhance the overall experience for its students. One of the challenges I observed was the limited industry exposure. While the academic curriculum was thorough, more industry tie-ups, guest lectures by professionals, and internship opportunities would better prepare students for the dynamic agricultural sector. I urge the university to strengthen its alumni network and create mentorship programs where graduates can guide current students in navigating career paths.

Another area of improvement is the integration of modern technology and digital tools in teaching. The agricultural field is rapidly advancing, and incorporating tools like GIS, precision agriculture software, and data analytics into the curriculum will ensure students stay ahead of the curve.

Likewise the university could also focus on enhancing the sanitation and hygiene standards in Hostels including the hostel mess. The quality of food provided in some of the hostels is questionable and no strict actions have been taken by the administration despite rigorous complains and follow ups by the residing hostellers.

Additionally, soft skill development, such as communication, public speaking, and leadership training, could be emphasized more. These skills are crucial for success in both professional and personal spheres and would greatly benefit students when they step into competitive environments.

In conclusion, my time at BUAT was an enriching experience that shaped me into the person I am today. I deeply appreciate the efforts of the faculty and staff in nurturing us and creating a conducive environment for learning. At the same time, I hope the university continues to evolve and address the needs of its students by fostering greater industry collaboration, technological integration, and personal skill development. These actionable steps will undoubtedly solidify BUAT's position as a leading institution in agricultural education.

I wish all the very best to the alumni association for continuing this wonderful initiative.

Best regards,
Neelendra Tripathi

I am very grateful to be a student of Buat, where I transform myself from such a nice place.

In the case of staffs - there are supportive staffs, they not only teach subject matter, they teach moral values. in case of JRF/SRF and other state-level exams for further study guides from the first year and also available JRF cell.

but some staff's working process is slow and rude behavior, even for some work, has to be visited twice or thrice for completion.

I would say it was an awesome place for further study exam preparation along with the attached library in the College of Agriculture, where we find various publications books.

In case of sports- I wasn't much interested in sports, but I can tell it was a good place because despite the lack of facilities, students had done great because of great teachers Dr. Abhishek Yadav and Kalia Sir.

Placement Cell - I was concerned during my campus life, regarding jobs, but by this I got job and full filled my dream. Many thanks to Dr. Abhishek Kalia for having a placement committee. 🙏🙏

Canteen - Canteen is not so good because it is only one general store where product prices are so high, it seems like a monopoly.

Hostel food: Hostel food is good compared to other universities.
